LOGICLIBRARY CEO NAMED FINALIST FOR ERNST & YOUNG'S 2004 ENTREPRENEUR OF THE YEAR AWARD

Greg Coticchia Recognized Two Years in a Row as a Driving Force in the Pittsburgh Technology Market

PITTSBURGH—June 28, 2004—LogicLibrary™ today announced that CEO Greg Coticchia was a finalist for the prestigious Ernst & Young 2004 Western Pennsylvania Entrepreneur Of The Year® (EOY) award for the second consecutive year. Winners were announced on Friday, June 25, at the Westin Convention Center Hotel in Pittsburgh.

Since assuming leadership of the company in 2002, Coticchia has cultivated LogicLibrary into one of the fastest-growing, most successful software companies in Pittsburgh. He has spearheaded efforts to establish partnerships with industry giants such as Microsoft and IBM as well as securing national clients like Charles Schwab & Co. and CNA Insurance. In addition, top analyst firm Gartner, Inc., recently positioned LogicLibrary in the “Leader” quadrant of its Magic Quadrant for Metadata Repositories.

“Being named a finalist for the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year two years running is a privilege and a testament to the caliber of the people at LogicLibrary,” said Coticchia. “Our team members put their entire heart into building a leading product and providing the support necessary to propel the company forward. We believe that we have had a very positive impact on the Pittsburgh area and are doing what we can to create an even greater one.”

Coticchia holds an MBA from the University of Pittsburgh, Katz School of Business, and a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering from the University of Pittsburgh. He also completed Carnegie Mellon University's Entrepreneurial Management Program.

The Entrepreneur Of The Year Award program was created and is produced by professional services firm Ernst & Young LLP. In Western Pennsylvania, the awards were sponsored by Alpern Rosenthal, MARSH USA, Bowne, PMI, KDKA-AM, the Pittsburgh Business Times and the Pittsburgh Technology Council. Recipients of the Entrepreneur Of The Year award become lifetime members of the Entrepreneur Of The Year Hall of Fame.
